

Held-out grouped permutation importance

A. Ranking information lost after permutation

B. Probability information lost after permutation

Physical features were permuted within discovery method in each held-out fold. Temperature, radius, and mass were also permuted together as one block to preserve their internal covariance. Individual stellar importances are not additive.