

Boosting finds a broad period window, not a stable temperature-dependent ridge

Local conditional surfaces average over nearby observed radius-mass configurations. The dashed line marks each model's maximum; it is descriptive, not a physical HZ boundary.